Banking Firm Gone Under.

The firm at 1 o'clock stopped receiving deposits at their office at Fourth and Chestnut streets and at 1.15 o'clock the doors were closed. They refused to make any explanation of their troubles, Mr. Wharton Barker saying that the firm had no statement to make whatever.

It is said, however, on 'Change that the failure was due to the inability to put up acceptable collaterals with the banks. They were largely interested in outside ventures which do not command a ready market, No large amount of active stocks or bond will come out. Barkers' two trust companies are still open.

The failure of Barker Bros., of Philadelphia was reported in Wall street early in the afternoon and the announcement at once caused decline in the price of stocks.

THE EVENING WORLD. There seems to be no doubt now that Willam and John D. Rockefeller have acquired complete control of the Northern Pacific system, and that Henry Villard is soon likely to become a back number again, so far as those immense properties in the Northwest are con-

This control was secured in consequence of the liquidation of the loans of the North American Company, which held as its assets a very considerable portion of the Northern Pacific tock, both preferred and common.

This was purchased, so the story goes, by the Rockefellers, who have for some time past been seeking investment for an enormous Jay Gould and his friends, who is now credited with the organization of a scheme of tremen dous magnit de, whose object is to bring to an end all the railroad warfare in the West, especially among the railroads west of the Mississippi by establishing the long-talked-of railroad clearing-house system.

Country banks show reviving confidence. Acting on the advice given by the Governor of the Bank of England at the Joint stock bank meeting, it is expected that the London banks will post notices to the effect that they will continue to grant loans on Stock Exchange securities. Perhaps they will go further and not insist upon the full usual margin of security over and above the cash advance.

How the Duke of Leinster Was Once Set to Beat Tenny.

Linden Park had a sensational wind-up to a successful meeting yesterday. It; was the non-appearance of Starter J. F. Caldwell to start the nerses. The cause of all the trouble was explained in this column last night. To repeat it briefly, on Monday Mr. Caldwell find the jockeys heavily for disobedience at the post. On Tuesday the jockeys struck and re-fused to ride because they could not, or rather because they would not pay their fines. Mr. Lucius Appleby, one of the largest stockholders, rather than disappoint all the people present paid the boy's fines, and this precipitated the trouble, as the boys were encouraged to set the starter at defiance. The Association and Mr. Caldwell are both to blame. The latter, being under contract should have appeared yesterday and fuifiled his contract. Then he could have informed the Association that he considered himsel badly treated and refused to start for them in succeeding seasons. Or, better still, if be had appeared and if the jockeys had been as ilsgrantly disobedient as they were on Tuesday, ne might have set them all down for a couple of weeks and no one would have blamed him. Mr. Caldwell is entitled to some sympathy, for the Association practically set his authority at aught, and his feeling were nadly hurt. If when they received word that the boys and struck each and every jockey had been called before the officers of and questioned, and, still adhering to their deermination to strike, their badges had been taken away and the boys put outside the gates, It is dollars to doughnuts that the boys would have weakened and that far better results would have been achieved. Billy Lakeland showed yesterday that he could start horses. He should be a good man for the position. He is an old trainer and was once a jockey. He is cool-headed and has quick perceptions; and that he is honest to the core there is no doubt. His horses have been run to win every time, no matter what the price

Before the fourth race yesterday Silent looked to be the biggest kind of a cinch. Indeed it was dollars to cents that Silent on his form could distance the other three nags pitted against time, and yet he came within an ace of being beaten. Two more jumps would have enabled Lady M. to win. The fluish was the prettiest of the day, Silent, Lady M. and the Duke of Leinster finishing short beads apart.

The Duke of Leinster, by the way, once tried to beat Tenny. The owner's instructions to the Jockey were: "Lay wid Tinny to the head of the atreich and then come away wid the Duke." It is needless to say that the Jockey couldn't follow instructions, for the Duke equidn't come away a little bit.
